Every year our Title VII Indian Education Parent Committee offers scholarships to graduating Native high school seniors who are registered in our program.

Each year we offer $6,000 in scholarships, and each year we must work hard to replenish our scholarship fund in preparation for the next round of scholarships awards.

We are asking members of our Native community to help by attending a Craft Work Day where we make hand-made Native items. Our plan is to sell crafts at Chaw'se Big Time, on September 26-27.

Most items do not require a great deal of previous experience or skill. You may want to grind and clean pine nut beads while another chooses beads and does the stringing. There are many similar task that you may choose to do. We will provide all the materials and instructions so participants can be successful and feel good about their contributions.

If Craft Work Day participants have items they've already made or have at home, we welcome that as well.

Participants can come for all or part of the work day. We welcome what ever time you have available. Children are welcome. We want them to feel good about being part of this community effort.

Please bring a dish to share. There will be a potluck lunch around 1:00pm.
